Other European Legislation

The activity of the President of URE cannot be perceived separately from the international and mostly the European context of the Regulator's activity. The role the national regulatory bodies play in the process of liberalisation and consolidation of the European energy markets is constantly strengthened by the European Union, and is reflected in the EU legislation, under which regulators are given new tasks, rights and obligations. The selected EU legal acts, regulations and directives, which are of great importance for the functioning of energy markets in Poland and the activity of the regulatory bodies, are available below.
